ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

A Female Bookkeeper Charged With Grand Larceny.

The Complainants Are Officers of the United States Playing Card Co., Cincinnati—Alleged Peculations May Reach $50,000.

New York, Oct. 3.—Marie Layton Johnson, wife of Albert M. Johnson, a dentist of Larchmont, N. Y., was arrested Friday night on a warrant charging her with grand larceny of $2,000. The total amount of her defalcations may, it is said, amount to $50,000.

The complainants are officers of the United States Playing Card Co., of Cincinnati. The officers are John Omwake, president; R. H. McCutcheon, secretary and treasurer and manager of the New York branch, and R. J. Morgan, manager of the Cincinnati office.

Mrs. Johnson, whose maiden name was Marie Layton, was bookkeeper for the New York office, and in addition, acted as private secretary to Mr. McCutcheon. She was married to Dr. Johnson in 1901, but did not leave her position after the marriage. In April of this year discrepancies are said to have been discovered in her accounts, according to the statement given out by Inspector McClusky, and an examination is said to have revealed a shortage of $10,000 between January 1 and April 15, in the accounts of the New York office.

The woman's method is said to have been as follows: The accounts of the concern were kept in the Hanover national bank, there being a New York and Cincinnati account there. Cincinnati would send to New York a bill of goods, which would be sold for $3,000, and that amount would be placed to the credit of the Cincinnati account. But, it is alleged, Mrs. Johnson would charge the New York office with $5,000, taking the difference herself. To make the accounts balance she would then raise a small bill of goods shipped from Cincinnati from, say $9 to $2,000.

Mrs. Johnson was discharged from the employment of the company in April, when, Inspector McClusky says, she admitted defalcations of $10,000. It was thought at that time that her husband, Dr. Johnson, who has a large practice, would make up the loss, but this was not done. Later, further investigation was made into both the New York and Cincinnati accounts, with the result, it is said, that the defalcations now amount to $33,000, with a possibility that they may reach $50,000.

Dr. Johnson refused to say anything about the case, nor would any of the officers of the card company talk.

It is said that Mrs. Johnson speculated in Wall street and lost considerable money there.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

It Will Be Called By President Roosevelt in November.

Washington, Oct. 3.—A good deal of pressure has been brought to bear on the president to induce him not to call congress into extraordinary session in November; but to all callers who have spoken to him in that vein he has said that this government is committed to the proposition that the Cuban reciprocity treaty be made effective at the earliest possible date and he regards it as a matter of good faith that this country should keep its word. He has declined, therefore, to consider any proposal looking to the abandonment of the idea of an extraordinary session.

MAIL POUCH THEFT.

It Is Said It Contained $500,000 in Negotiable Paper.

New York, Oct. 3.—Word was received Friday night that F. H. Crosby, alias A. E. Bell, alias Hammond, alias Crawford, had been arrested in Denver, accused of stealing a mail pouch containing $500,000 worth of negotiable bank paper at Philadelphia on the night of September 8. He is charged with several other crimes, including swindling and forgery. It is alleged that Crosby returned to this country from Crowe, Pa., last summer and went to Asbury Park, where he represented himself to be a fruit speculator. His wife mingled in good society and introduced her husband to prominent business men and at the bank there, where he made deposits, declaring to the officials that he intended to continue his account for the summer months.

On September 10, it is said, he deposited a number of checks payable to his order, drawn on different Philadelphia firms. Two days later he closed the accounts, withdrawing the amounts due him. He and his wife then left Asbury Park.

About this time, it is said, W. W. Dickinson, chief post office inspector of Philadelphia, discovered the theft of a mail pouch containing bank remittances from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, the entire amounts being estimated at $500,000.

It is alleged that during the last ten days complaints were received at Asbury Park banks that checks accepted by them had been tampered with; that the names of the payees had been erased and Crosby's name inserted, and that small amounts had been raised to larger ones.

It was recalled that a mail pouch had been stolen at Springfield Junction, Ill., last April and that A. B. Hammond had opened a cash account at the Lincoln Trust Co., St. Louis, depositing a number of altered checks from the stolen mail pouch. It was suspected that the mail pouch robbery was committed by A. E. Bell, alias Crawford, whose photograph was identified by the officials of the St. Louis bank.

Investigation at Asbury Park developed that Crosby was none other than A. E. Hammond, alias Bell, alias Crawford. Post Office Inspector Jacobs traced him to Denver, where he was arrested Friday night.

Crosby is suspected of committing numerous post office robberies in New York, Buffalo and other cities.

THE MONOCACY SOLD.

A Japanese Merchant Purchased the Vessel For $11,225.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The navy department Friday received a cable dispatch from Rr. Adm. Robley D. Evans, commanding the Asiatic station, saying that he had accepted the bid of Yashimoto, a Japanese merchant, for the purchase of the Monocacy. The purchase price was $11,225. The Monocacy is now at Taku, China. She went to China soon after the close of the civil war and was present at the battle of Taku, in command of Commander F. M. Wise. Under instructions from Rr. Adm. Kempff, who was in command of the American ships at Taku, the Monocacy did not participate in this fight.

The Monocacy has had a somewhat checkered career. She is a schooner-rigged, sidewheel steamer, and was built in Baltimore in 1863. She outlived her usefulness many years ago, after arriving on the Chinese coast, and for several years has been lying in a mud dock in the Pei Ho. Adm. Evans was instructed to sell her without regard to the appraisement, which was only $8,000.

FIRE ESCAPE LAW.

A Crusade Against Violation Opened in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Building Commissioner Williams, who has just opened a crusade against owners of buildings four stories and higher who have not complied with the requirements of the fire escape provisions, discovered Friday that the city hall in which his department has quarters is in open violation of the law. The county buildings also is unprovided with fire escapes, and Commissioner Williams will have both structures provided with them at once. The commissioners had overlooked the deficiency, and is now in doubt as to whether the city can impose a fine on itself or not.

ORGANIZED MILITIA.

They Assemble at West Point, Ky., For the Maneuvers.

They Number About 9,000 and Will Play Mimic War in Connection With Several Regiments of the Regular Army.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 2.—The organized militia of six states poured in on Camp Young by the thousands Thursday and by night the greater portion of the 9,000 or more troops had arrived, although only about half of them had established permanent camp by nightfall. For the regular troops already in camp the day was rather a quiet one. The infantry put in a hard but uneventful stretch of work at digging intrenchments. The cavalry brigade spent the morning polishing up for a brigade review, which took place in the afternoon.

Twelve hundred men from the 1st, 3d and 20th infantries were set to work early in the day on a series of intrenchments with a front of about 1,700 feet. The time consumed and the quality of the work were appraised by Gen. Bates and the umpires. The principal object in throwing up the works, however, was that they might be used for the instruction of the officers of the state guard.

The review of the cavalry in the afternoon was attended by Gen. Bates, the umpires and nearly all the visiting officers, including Maj. Raspapoff and Col. Foster, the representatives of the Russian and British armies. The troops on review consisting of two squadrons of the 7th, a squadron of the 8th and two troops each of the 2d and 4th, made a decided impression on the foreign attaches. After they had passed in review the 7th was re-formed in line and to the accompaniment of music went through the first and second series of movements provided in the Butts manual for sabres.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 3.—The lateness of the arrival of portions of several of the militia regiments caused considerable modification of Friday's program after the troops had taken the field. Instead of spending the whole day in advance guard movements as intended at the start, it was decided to return after five Indiana battalions and the greater part of the Third brigade, composed of Michigan troops, has not been given a brief period of work, the Indiana troops, in extended order, and the Michigan infantry in close order.

The officers of the state troops spent a portion of the afternoon inspecting intrenchments thrown up by the regular troops on Thursday. The engineer officers in charge of the work had provided specimens of all the light earthworks known to modern warfare. The commissary officers of the militia also had a period of instruction from two regular officers on "Methods of administration in the subsistence department." A lecture for all officers on "The subsistence of armies" was given Friday evening.

CONVENT BESIEGED.

A Number of Monks and Civilians Were Arrested.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The convent of Amanlis, department of Ille-et-Vilaine, strongly barricaded and defended, was besieged Friday by civil officers, assisted by gendarmes. A crowd of hundreds of people, headed by a former mayor, hissed the officers, threw stones at them and impeded their progress. One of the novel methods of defense consisted in a number of bee hives, which were placed at the entrance of the convent. The barricades were finally broken down and a number of monks and civilians were arrested.

At Castres-sur-L'Agout, department of Tarn, a large seminary chapel and library were destroyed, which is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, as the flames were started simultaneously in five places. It was intended to reopen the seminary Saturday.

Appointed Vali of Beirut.

Beirut, Oct. 2.—Ignoring the unanimous request of the consuls, the porte has appointed Khalia Pasha of Brussa vali of Beirut. It is feared that disorders will ensue on the departure of Nazim Bey, acting vali.

Jockey Skeets Martin Suspended.

London, Oct. 2.—J. H. (Skeets) Martin, the American jockey, has been suspended from riding from October 2 to October 9 by the stewards of the jockey club for attempting to anticipate the start in the race for the Hopeful stakes.

Gen. Orlando Smith Critically Ill.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Gen. Orlando Smith, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., prior to the receivership, is critically ill at his home in Chicago, and he is not expected to live longer than two or three days.

Couldn't See It.

A trifling technicality was the basis of the argument, and, after deciding upon a referee, each man stated his contention, relates the Chicago Post.

"I don't see the difference," said the referee.

"You don't!" cried the argumentative one.

"No, I don't."

"Well, now, see here." And each one very carefully stated his position again.

"Now do you see it?" they asked.

"No, you are dull." But, nevertheless, each one went over the ground again.

"How about it now?" they asked.

"I still fail to see it," was the reply.

"Do you ever expect to see it?" one of them asked, sarcastically.

"Not unless you put it in writing," he replied. "It's all a matter of words, and one can't see the spoken word."

Thereupon they stopped the argument long enough to throw the referee over the top of a building.

Easy to Get.

Pierpont, O., Oct. 5th.—Remarkable indeed is the experience of Mr. A. S. Turner, a man now over seventy-one years of age, and whose home is here, they asked.

For many years this old gentleman had suffered with a very unpleasant form of Kidney Trouble, a kind that very often bothers aged people. He would have to get up four or five times every night, and this very tiresome disease was fast wearing him out.

At last after having almost made up his mind that he would never be able to get relief, he stumbled over a medicine which relieved him almost immediately, and has cured him permanently. It is so very easy to get, and so simple that Mr. Turner thinks every one should know it. Every dealer in the country has it, and all you have to do is to ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Turner says:

"I can heartily and honestly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they cured me. Several others in the family have used them, too, and always with the best results. I think they have no equal."

Right Back!

When off duty Prof. Richards, of Yale, enjoys a joke, and his pupils often come to him when they have heard a new one. He adds to the fun sometimes with a witticism of his own. Such was the case when one of the students perpetrated the following antiquity: "Professor, wouldn't you like a good recipe for catching rabbits?" "Why, yes," replied the professor. "What is it?" "Well, you crouch down behind a thick stone wall and make a noise like a turnip," answered the youth, giggling in ecstasy. Quick as a flash came the reply: "Oh, a better way than that would be for you to go and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage heads and look natural."—Chicago Chronicle.

A Good Thing.

Every issue of The Four-Track News makes it easier for ticket agents and ticket sellers to secure passengers for distant parts of the country, for the reason that every article and every illustration in The Four-Track News is an inducement for readers to travel and see what a marvelous variety of scenery and climate our own country possesses. The more these facts are impressed upon the average person, the more certain he or she is to have a desire to travel. Therefore, The Four-Track News is not only in the interest of all the transportation lines and hotels, it also bears out the legend of its title page of "An Illustrated Magazine of Travel and Education."—From the Buffalo Commercial.

Modern Sherlock.

The modern Sherlock was told to spot the suspected man.

"Well," said Sherlock, "I have at least found that his wife is away on a vacation."

"How did you find that out?" asked the mystified friend.

"He is wearing a safety pin instead of a suspender button."—Chicago Daily News.

THE VESSEL CAPSIZED.

Twelve Persons Drowned and Seven Picked Up.

The Saved Were Found Floating on Pieces of Wreckage and Were Exhausted From Their Struggles Against Drowning.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 5.—During a squall Saturday night on Lake Michigan the steamer Erie H. Hackley capsized and 12 persons were drowned. The Goodrich line steamer Sheboygan rescued the other seven persons on board the Hackley, after they had floated about on pieces of wreckage all night. Report of the disaster reached Marinette Sunday.

The Hackley was struck by the squall when seven miles off Green Island. The upper work was blown away before the men could reach a haven. The boat then turned over and went down in deep water.

The drowned: George LeClaire, jr., Jacksonport, Wis.; Joseph V. Cras, captain of the Hackley, Fish Creek; Edna Barringer, Lawrence Barringer, Fish Creek; Henry Rabito, Fish Creek; Carl Kelky, Fish Creek; Miss Frances Vincent; Miss Vincent's sister, Egg Harbor, Wis.; Freeman Thorp, Fish Creek; Nels Nelson, Sturgeon Bay; Frank Fitzgibbons, Jacksonport; T. Truchly, cook.

Rescued: Frank Blakeley, purses, Fish Creek; Orrin Rollin, engineer, Fish Creek; Milton Hasen, Blaine McSweeney, Fish Creek; two men of Ellison Bay, Wis.

As the Hackley went to bottom those who would and could seized on floating pieces of wreckage, while the women and three or four of the men, failing to find any object to which to cling, sank in the raging sea, so far as is known.

The waves were rolling high and several of those who at first saved themselves from immediate death lost strength and sank. It was several hours after the Hackley sank before the Sheboygan hove within hailing distance. The shouts of the floating men attracted the attention of the sailors on the Sheboygan and every assistance was loaned.

The roughness of the lake made rescue slow, but the officers of the Sheboygan feel sure that they took aboard every person afloat. Some of the persons who were rescued say that it is possible that one or more of the 12 persons missing may have escaped north. This view is not given much credence by the sailors of the Sheboygan.

The Sheboygan made into Fish Creek when hope of rescuing other persons seemed improbable. The rescued persons were so exhausted from their struggle against drowning that they were unable for some time to tell anything about the wreck.

The persons saved by the Sheboygan say that with the crashing away of the upper works all persons aboard the Hackley ran on deck. Hasty preparations for a plunge into the water were begun, but before any plans could be carried out, the boat listed, turned over and went down like a rock.

Search is still being made for any person who may have escaped death and for the bodies of those who were drowned.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

The Yachtsman Will Sail For Home Next Friday.

New York, Oct. 5.—Sir Thomas Lipton arrived here from Chicago Sunday. He will remain here until Friday when he sails for home. While he has no present intention of building another challenger, he said that Shamrock III. would remain here to serve perhaps as a trial horse should the fortunate day ever come when he should feel justified in bringing over another challenger. There would be no use, he said, in doing so unless he could find another Herreshoff on the other side.

Two Thousand Turks Killed.

Salonica, Oct. 5.—The Bulgarian notables informed the authorities that a series of fresh outrages in Salonica is being planned. It is reported that 20 Turkish villages in the Razlog district have been burned. The large village of Bonisko is said to have been destroyed and its 2,000 Turkish inhabitants killed.

Reserve Policeman Killed.

Pittsburg, Oct. 5.—Andrew J. Kelly, a reserve policeman, was shot and killed Sunday night while trying to arrest Dusan Melicz, a Hungarian. Melicz was engaged in a struggle with a young companion when Kelly interfered. Melicz drew a revolver and fired three shots at Kelly, two taking effect.

Moorish Exhibit at the World's Fair. London, Oct. 5.—A Tangier correspondent says the sultan of Morocco has given a second installment of $50,000 to the American syndicate which is undertaking the Moorish exhibit at the St. Louis exposition.

Anarchists and Socialists Clash. Barre, Vt., Oct. 5.—One man dying, another suffering from a serious, but not necessarily fatal, bullet wound, and a third under arrest charged with firing the shots, is the outcome of the latest clash between the anarchists and socialists of this city.

SPECIAL SERVICE.

Official Tribute Will Be Paid to Sir Michael Herbert's Memory.

Washington, Oct. 5.—In a memorial service to be held at St. John's church on Tuesday, October 6, Rev. Cotton Smith, the rector, officiating, this government will pay official tribute to the memory of Rt. Hon. Sir Michael H. Herbert, G. C. M. G. A., C. B., his Britannic majesty's ambassador to the United States, who died September 30. The president, his cabinet and the diplomatic corps will attend the service.

Mr. Arthur Raikes, first secretary of embassy and charge d'affaires ad interim, will receive Monday by cable from King Edward designation to be present as the personal representative of his majesty. In the absence of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, Senor de Asprez, the Mexican ambassador, will be the acting dean of the corps, and will rank next to the president. In the event that he is able to reach Washington in time, Baron Von Sternberg, the German ambassador, who was Sir Michael's closest friend in the corps, will attend as the personal representative of Emperor William. Baron Sternberg is now at his summer home in New Hampshire.

Invitations to the service were issued from the state department Sunday by Mr. Loomis, the acting secretary of state, to the officials of the Washington government and members of the diplomatic corps. Prominent army and navy officials will also be present, and it is expected that they and the members of the corps will be in uniform.

This service is without precedent. Sir Michael is the only ambassador accredited to this government who has died while absent on leave. The service is in accordance with the wishes of the president, who was for years a warm personal friend of Sir Michael.

Mr. Loomis was suddenly called to his home in Ohio Sunday but hopes to return to Washington on Tuesday.

Sir Michael and Lady Herbert were members of St. John's church, as was Lord Pauncefoot, whose funeral was held there last year.

It is expected that the funeral of the British ambassador will take place about the same time on Tuesday at his home in England.

London, Oct. 5.—By the king's command a memorial service for Sir Michael Herbert will be held in Marlborough House chapel, adjoining St. James palace, on Tuesday afternoon. Special seats will be reserved for members of the diplomatic corps.

TORNADO IN ILLINOIS.

The storm started at the home of J. F. Cater, two miles southeast of Princeton. At that place it destroyed a new residence erected by Mr. Cater this year. The storm traveled in an easterly direction to the residence of Mrs. Sherwin, which was blown away. The three women in the house were killed and Mr. Sherwin, who was about to enter the house, was seriously injured. Considerable corn in the field was ruined and some stock killed. At the residence of Mr. Cater the family escaped by going to the cellar.

Two Rival Political Factions Came to Blows.

London, Oct. 5.—The candidature of John Howard Parnell, brother of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, at the parliamentary election for South Meath, which is deeply resented by the Redmonites, led to a riot Saturday when John Redmond and other nationalists went to speak in support of their candidate, David Sheehy. The rival factions came to blows at Dunshaughlin. Bludgeons and stones were used and many persons injured. John Redmond in his speech denounced J. H. Parnell as a traitor to the Irish unity.

THE PORTE WARNED.

Russian and Austria-Hungary Insist on the Reforms.

Vienna, Oct. 5.—As an outcome of the conference between the czar and Emperor Francis Joseph at Muerzsteg the governments of Austria and Russia have sent the following identical telegram to the ambassadors of those countries in Constantinople. The telegrams were couched in the following terms:

"You were recently instructed to declare that Austria-Hungary and Russia adhere to the task of pacification which they have undertaken and are resolved to preserve the program drawn up at the beginning of the year, notwithstanding the difficulties hitherto opposed to its execution. For, indeed, while on the one hand the revolutionary committees have provoked disturbances and deterred the Christian population of the vilayets from co-operating in the execution of the reforms, on the other hand, the representatives of the sublime porte entrusted with their application have been generally wanting in the necessary zeal and have not been imbued with the idea which inspired these measures. Both powers are united in the determination to show that it is their firm resolve to insist upon the execution in their entirety of those reforms which was accepted by the porte and which are calculated to guarantee general security. In this connection you will receive detailed instructions without delay."

"While the powers recognize to the full extent the porte's right and duty to suppress the disorders fostered by the insurrectionary agitation of the Macedonian committee, they at the same time deplore the fact that this suppression was accompanied by excesses and cruelties from which the peaceful inhabitants suffered. It therefore appears to them to be their urgent duty to come to the assistance of the victims of these regrettable occurrences, and the above-mentioned instructions will acquaint you with the details of the humanitarian action which they deem necessary with the object of supporting the inhabitants who have been deprived of all means of existence, facilitating their repatriation and restoring the villages, churches and schools destroyed by fire."

"The Austro-Hungarian and Russian governments entertain the firm hope that their continued endeavors to establish a lasting peace in the sorely tried provinces will attain their object and they are convinced that their impartial advice will be heeded by all to whom it is addressed in their own interests."

"By command of his majesty, my august master, I request you to communicate the foregoing to the Ottoman government after you have arrived at an understanding with your Russian (or Austrian) colleague, who has received identical instructions."

THE PANAMA CANAL.

No Immediate Steps Will Be Taken in Its Favor at Bogota.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald publishes a dispatch from Bogota, via Panama, which says that no immediate steps will be taken in favor of the canal. The opponents of the treaty are apparently pleased to see the United States feign to return to the Nicaraguan route. President Roosevelt's attitude is interpreted at Bogota as a sign that he will wait till August if necessary and that the United States will eventually accept Colombia's conditions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

We are authorized to announce E. P. Clarke as a candidate for Sheriff of Bourbon County, with Albert S. Thompson and Wm. F. Talbott as deputies, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Harvey Hibler as a candidate for Sheriff of Bourbon County, with Brutus J. Clay, Jr., and James Burke as deputies, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

REGISTER to-day.

REGISTER to-day and see that your Democratic neighbor does likewise.

The only difference between the Gen. Buckner of 1903 and the Gen. Buckner of 1896 is that the Gen. Buckner of 1903 has laid aside the Democratic mask.

EVERYTHING is favoring Gov. Beckham and his official family, even the stork which has just left its eighth administration baby at the home of Adjutant General David R. Marray.

A DEMOCRATIC club in every voting precinct would enable loyal Democrats to lay the foundation for a substantial victory for Democratic principles next year.

DR. GODFREY HUNTER's friends announce that he is a candidate for Congress to succeed the late Vincent Boering. The re-entrance of the Gnm Shoe into Kentucky politics is enough to make the snowball shiver.

The abuse of such a creature as Bill Owens is a compliment to any man. Gov. Beckham will be loved more than ever for the enmity of a black leg and gambler of the type of Owens.—Lexington Democrat.

BILL OWENS was unfortunate in selecting his subject for defamation. In public, as well as in private life, no man has a clearer record or more justly deserves the confidence and respect of his fellow-Kentuckians than Governor Beckham.

A Great Sale of Women's Skirts and Suits.

An Event Without A Parallel. Prices Cut to Half and Less.

We propose to make a clean sweep of everything in our Ready-to-Wear Department remaining from the Spring Stock. The volume of business done in our big Cloak Department during the past season exceeded anything we have ever known. To do this required an enormous stock, and what has remained with us is accounted for by that reason. The splendid results from increased sales enable us to offer at this season of the year tremendous reductions in order to make room for the big Fall line which is now pouring in daily.

We could easily dispose of these Suits and Separate Skirts at the prices below mentioned to any large dealer in a less up-to-date community, but we prefer to give the benefit of a great bargain to our own trade. Those who are our patrons at regular prices shall reap the advantage of this remarkable reduction.

The savings are real and positive. The goods come only from high-class manufacturers. The variety is still broad and satisfying.

Plan of Sale:

We have divided the stock of 109 suits into 4 lots, and we give herewith specific information concerning each lot:

LOT NO. 1.—Tailored Suits—Former prices $12.50 to $17.50. Closing Out Price $5.00 per suit.

This lot consists of 14 Suits, sizes 32 to 38, in different colors and styles, mostly blacks, tans, greys and browns. They would be a grand bargain at $10.00, but at $5.00 are virtually given away.

LOT NO. 2.—54 Tailored Suits—Former prices $18.00 to $22.50. Closing Out Price $4.75 per suit.

This lot consists of fine Cheviots, Broadcloths, Scotch Mixtures, Checks and Invisible Plaids, coats silk-lined throughout, none of them older than the Summer of 1903. The range of sizes is complete. The colors are plain blacks, plain blues, plain browns and mixtures.

LOT NO. 3.—34 Tailored Suits—Former prices $25.00 to $30.00. Closing Out Price $14.75 per suit.

This lot represents the choicest and best things we had. We sold 135 of these suits in similar styles at regular prices, but the remainder will have to go at once, hence this great price shrinkage of less than half. All sizes are in the lot somewhere, and the colors are blacks, blues, browns and mixtures.

LOT NO. 4.—Only 7 Suits in This Lot—Formerly sold as $35.00 to $45.00. Closing Out Price $19.75 per suit.

These suits represent the remainder of what were the most charming and exclusive creations in our big style store. RAINY DAYS.
I love the dark and stormy day—
The lashing bough, the broken spray,
The swirling and incessant rain,
The pearly and dripping window-pane,
The clouds so dense that one may know
For hours and hours it shall be so.

Click, click upon the shining street
Go scurrying horses' nimble feet.
A lone pedestrian slantwise bent
Against the drenching element.
No bird or fowl in tree or sky,
Torn leaves in tumult drifting by,
And rolling with a muffled swell
A slowly tolling funeral bell.

Where now the throngs on pleasure bent,
The eager step, the pressed intent?
They must await the sunlight ray;
Storm has no path for such as they.
And fancy now her wand may wave:
I see the rivulet round the grave
And with the twilight comes the view
Night closing in on Waterloo.

CHAPTER V.

AN INTERRUPTION.

Only a little over a mile beyond where he had met Jane she would have to cross a creek. It was a mean stream with quicksand bottom, unfordable except at one place. This ford, partly made by nature and helped out by man, was marked on either side of the stream by a signpost that travelers might not miss it and get caught in the quicksand.

The night before some wild spirits among the Americans, learning that a band of Tories was likely to cross at that spot, and allude with fury over the treatment Bessemer had given the Continentals at the battle of the 29th of May, painstakingly dug up the posts and placed them a little lower down. The scheme had worked so well that the first Tories who had attempted to cross were caught in the quicksand and one man and two horses were lost. In the confusion which followed the whole band had been well peppered with shot by the concealed Americans. The intention had been to move the posts back the next morning, but Godfrey knew this had not been done, and his heart misgave him when he thought of Jane.

The plot filled him with loathing, at once so wicked and so foolish was it. Such underhand doings were not his idea of warfare, yet it was these same wild spirits who had conceived it that he was trying to weld into a body of recruits.

When the creek came into view the carriage was just entering the stream between the posts. With a shout of warning, he dashed forward. As he drew nearer, he saw that the off-horse was already beginning to sink, while the carriage lurched dangerously.

Flinging himself from his horse, Worthington snatched Jane from the carriage and carried her to a place of safety. His next move was to rescue Aunt Rachel and Mammy Anne, while under his direction Gabriel began search for a piece of rope under the box-seat, where a supply of such things were usually kept in those days of bad roads and frequent breakdowns. Absalom had already cut the horses loose from the carriage, and by means of the lines was dragging the near-horse, which had sunk only a little way, back to firm ground. The off-horse was already nearly in his belly, and the task of rescuing him was a serious one.

Slowly, doggedly, physical strength prevailed over nature's treachery, and gradually the horse was dragged, all bruised and bleeding and stunned with fright, to the ground.

"I don't understand," Jane said. "I am all in a daze. Here are the signposts, and yet this isn't the ford. The ford is there. How does it come that the posts have been moved?"

Worthington hung his head. "It was done last night, I believe," he answered unwillingly and falteringly, which was against him, "by some hoodlums to deceive a party of—Tories, who were coming this way."

"To deceive some Tories? By hoodlums? And what hoodlums, pray, would stoop to a thing so low but those who are your partisans—you, doubtless, among them? Oh, shame, shame! To think that such atrocities could be—Capt. Worthington, I am obliged to you for the assistance you have rendered me and my party this morning, but I hope that this will be the last occasion upon which we shall meet. Never again do I wish to look upon the face of one who could lend himself to a trick so base. Absalom, mount Elam, who does not seem so much the worse for his experience, and ride back home as fast as you can for more horses. 'Tis useless to think of proceeding to my aunt's to-day. If we can but get back home in safety, we may consider ourselves most fortunate in these brutal times. Meanwhile, I will walk to Squire Henry's. 'Tis but a mile."

She started off, Aunt Rachel and her black mammy following, and Godfrey let her go without a word of explanation or defense. He told himself that if Jane could find it in her heart to accuse him of a deed at once so dastardly and so childish, naught that he could say would have weight with her. The loyal girl friend of his childhood and boyhood was dead; the Jane who would once have flown to his defense had others accused him of what she had herself laid at his door was no more.

She could fly into a passion over a deed which she imputed to him, but he had heard no word of condemnation from her lips of Bessemer's barbarous treachery in firing upon an enemy during a flag of truce and of slaughtering opponents who begged for quarter. Nay, had she not received the monster into her house with friendliest hospitality immediately after his outrageous action?

When he had done all he could for the exhausted horse, Worthington mounted his own and rode away, but not through the forest this time. He took the road that lay along the creek, sandy and barren and desolate, better suited to his mood than the close, sweet intimacy of the woods.

Turning suddenly to the right, he entered a ravine along whose rocky bottom ran a swift-flowing stream. Following this for a tedious distance, while his horse snorted and shook his head in frequent protest over the roughness of the way, he finally came within sight of a curl of blue smoke, and it was not long before he was able to see that the smoke arose from a camp-fire.

Scattered along the rocky base and edges of the ravine, at convenient proximity to the fire, were some 25 or 30 men, their horses tethered near. They were a sturdy-looking set, some of them with fierce expressions, some wearing a devil-may-care air, but most of them with phlegmatic countenances that defied the observer, however keen, to read their thoughts. As a rule, they were unshaven and roughly dressed, most of them in doekskin trousers and homespun shirts. Their rifles were by their sides or slung across their backs. These were the men whom Godfrey had gathered together to help revenge Buford.

His was the only continental uniform among them, and he the only trained soldier, but every man in that company was a dead shot, an expert horseman, and an intrepid spirit. In fact, he had gathered one of those bands of mounted riflemen that were to make Sumter's fame and do so much for the preservation of South Carolina's liberty.

In the ashes of the fire were baking sweet potatoes and hoe-cakes, and Worthington was just in time to partake of the noonday meal.

The next two months were monotonous ones for Jane, despite the return of her father and mother from Charleston and the week's visit which her brother made them. Arriving from England with his commission as a lieutenant in Lord Cornwallis' army, he was assigned by that general to Bessemer's command, and the latter graciously obtained for him a ten-days' furlough that he might visit his home, sending by him numerous messages to Jane.

The morning of the seventeenth of August, 1780, was hot and sultry. Jane's father had been carried out by Gabriel and Absalom, and placed in his chintz-covered arm-chair in the summer-house. Jane sat beside him, reading aloud passages from his favorite Cicero.

His two months' treatment under the famous Charleston doctor had done him but little good. The hands which lay upon the arms of his chair were as tremulous as leaves of the aspen-tree, while the veins stood in thick blue cords above the scared and yellow skin. The face, once beautifully white, was covered with brown blotches, and the silken gray curls hung with distressing thinness upon his shoulders.

Nevertheless, he made an exquisite picture in his flowered chair. His yellow silk-lined coat was thrown open, displaying the dainty whiteness of his ruffled shirt. His brown silk hose were drawn up without a wrinkle over his thin legs and met his brown knee-breeches under jeweled buckled garters. The great magnolia trees, one on either side of the summer-house, cast a luxurious shade, making the wearing of the three-cornered hat which lay beside him unnecessary. The air was heavy with the rich odor of the ripened grapes in the vineyard to the left, while on the right the flower-garden was radiant with hollyhocks and larkspurs and marigolds, and great tubs of flowering oleander. The summer-house itself was a mass of morning glories and passion-flowers.

Jane was not the least attractive bit of the pleasing picture, in her white frock with its puffed paniers, its elbow-sleeves, and its low-cut bodice modestly filled in with a lace-trimmed kerchief that was drawn not too closely about the white throat.

Into the peace and quiet of this scene broke the sound of many horses' feet. "What is it, my daughter?" Mr. Ellery asked, grasping the arms of his chair with trembling hands. "Is it the rebels?"

"Nay, father," Jane answered, "methinks it is rather the British, to judge by the dashes of red I see among the trees; but I will go and find out."

She laid her book upon the table as she spoke, and, rising from her seat, left the summer-house and walked with light, quick step towards the mansion.

CHAPTER VI.

A PROPOSAL.

Jane's stepmother was already at the front door with Edward elated in her arms, for Mrs. Ellery was as fond of the boy as though he were her own son. Close behind were Bessemer and his staff. When the British colonel caught sight of Jane he hastened forward and grasped her hand. "Ah, Mistress Jane, you must hold your brother accountable for this intrusion. My heart so yearned for a sight of you and your hospitable home that I feared to indulge myself by coming here lest I could not tear myself away, but he would hear of naught but that we must breakfast at the Ellery mansion."

"My brother is ever considerate of his family's pleasure," Jane answered, "and he knew what happiness it would give my father and my mother to welcome one who has been so kind to their son."

"Indeed, yes," Edward put in gayly, "and I wanted the colonel to see that my mother could outdo even your famous breakfast that he has so bragged upon."

Mrs. Ellery had been no laggard in welcoming her guests. Leaving Jane and Edward to see to their entertainment, she hastened back to give orders for the preparation of a meal that should, indeed, as Edward had boasted, outdo Jane's.

Presently Edward stole away to see his father, and when he came back he requested Jane to take Col. Bessemer to him.

Never had the British colonel appeared to better advantage in Jane's sight than during the brief converse with her father—his manner at once deferential and genial, his tones low but attuned perfectly for the invalid's ear, his words full of praise for the soldier son, of his courage, his devotion to duty, his popularity with his brother officers. Jane saw her father's dull eyes brighten, she saw the expression of patient suffering give way to one of interest, and the withered cheek lightened with a faint tinge of color.

Her heart went out to Bessemer that he should have given the older man those few minutes of pleasure, and when, with the excuse of not wishing to tire the invalid, he drew her from the summer-house, she walked with him along the garden paths and entered the green and purple labyrinth in the grape-arbor towards which he directed their steps.

She put up her hand and plucked some grapes for him. He took them from her, and then, a quick glance around assuring him that the thick screen of vines hid them from view, he caught her hands in his and drew her to him.

"Jane," he cried in the smothered voice of passion, "Jane, I love you!"

The girl struggled to free herself but he held her close, while his hot kisses fell upon her brilliant hair and white brow. Presently, however, either she gave more force to her efforts or he feared to offend her past forgiveness, for he released her and dropped upon his knees before her.

"Sweetheart," he said, "forgive me my impetuosity. If I have been too forward, if I seem to have taken undue advantage of this one moment allotted me alone with you, then let the adoration which I feel speak in my behalf. The affection which I felt for you when a little girl in Philadelphia, though you touched my heart then as none of your sex ere had before, was but the gentle warmth of a candle beside the noonday heat of my love for you now. Jane, may I not carry you back to England with me to adorn my home, to be tended with my most jealous care?"

"Col. Bessemer, I"—Jane passed her hand across her forehead, as though to smooth away perplexity—"I scarce know what to say, so taken by surprise am I. May I—will you not grant me a respite—time for consideration of the great honor you have done me? There is the breakfast bell," she added hurriedly, and with very evident relief; "we must hasten or my stepmother will grow nervous."

Bessemer rose and, holding her hands in his, scanned her face with his keen eyes. "Time for consideration? Ah, sweet one, if your heart were filled with love for me as mine is for you, there would be no need of consideration. Tell me, Jane, do not your pulse beat responsive to my own? Does not some of the rapture which I feel awaken an answering glow in you? Surely it must be so. Then what need for waiting? For keeping me in cruel suspense? Nay, let thy sweet compassion plead for me. Take pity on this lonely soldier, and give him the boon of your requiting love. Let him feel that when he returns victorious to your side he will find this priceless treasure awaiting him. Tell me, Jane, that it shall be so." He would have drawn her again within his arms, but Jane put up her hand in determined gesture.

"No, Col. Bessemer, I must have time to think. I am deeply sensible of the honor you do me, but I am not so young as I once was, and I realize fully what an alteration in my life assent to your request would mean. Before passing upon a question so weighty, I think it scarce unreasonable to stipulate for due consideration."

She spoke with dignity and decision, and Bessemer, shrewd enough to know that such poise augured less well for him than girlish confusion would, felt the blood swirl hotly in his veins, while his eyes narrowed with fuller determination to conquer where conquering was made difficult. His was not a nature to value highly that which came easy. Women almost as beautiful as Jane had come lightly to his arms and been lightly cast aside. This girl would be hard to win, and won, would be won for always.

He bent his head and kissed her hands with appealing lips. "Ah, beloved, my zealous heart hath again betrayed me into an eagerness that merits your rebuke. I would not have you think that I could refuse any request of yours, though it is one which means for me many weary moments of uncertainty, now anguished by doubt, now consumed by fire of hope. Sweet one, may I not pray that you will at least make the time of probation short? I am on my way to capture that brigand, Sumter. When that is accomplished, I shall return this way; then may I not claim my answer?"

They had reached the entrance to the grape-arbor by now, and Jane's eyes viewed questioningly the prospect before her—the bright garden, the rear and side of the great old mansion, the sweep of the fruitful fields to the east, the clump of woods walling in the west. This was home—beautiful, luxurious, beloved home; and the man beside her asked her to leave it all for him. Surely much to ask; yet, with him close beside her, with his supplicating words in her ears, with his musical, persuasive voice; his forceful personality appealing to her, it would not have been hard to have turned and given him her hands in complete surrender. The fascination he had wielded when she was a school girl in Philadelphia was still potent; but she had learned coquetry, coyness, it might be judiciousness, since. She took her eyes from the landscape and brought them back to the Englishman.

"I cannot promise, Col. Bessemer," she said, "but if I can, I will have my answer ready—then."

When the officers had eaten their fill they prepared with some haste for departure. Bessemer had little opportunity to do more than press Jane's hand ardently and whisper a word of love in her ear before he flung himself astride his gray.

JUDICIAL PROMPTNESS.

Dozing Habit of Famous English Justice Did Not Give Anybody an Advantage.

Lord Coleridge, lord chief justice of England from 1880 until 1894, has been described as England's greatest criminal judge. A writer in the Pall Mall Magazine says that in appearance he was the very embodiment of judicial dignity. He was ever courteous and considerate, and never tried to win cheap applause at the expense of an inexperienced barrister or overwrought witness.

He had a curious habit, on the bench, of leaning back in his chair and closing his eyes, and this sometimes led the unwary to conclude that he was asleep.

On one occasion, during the trial of a prisoner for setting fire to a dwelling house, the counsel for the defense was much upset through his ignorance of the chief's habit. Throughout the day he had been trying to get before the jury the fact that a man other than the prisoner had openly threatened to burn down the particular house.

Each attempt to introduce testimony which the rules of evidence would not admit, was checked by a prompt objection, sustained by the court. But when the speech for the defense was begun Lord Coleridge went off into his usual doze, and the counsel saw his opportunity.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said he, "let me come to another and most serious point. We have heard from the witnesses that a certain Bill Smith had, prior to the fire, been dismissed by the prosecutor from his service. Now, gentlemen, I can tell you something—"

"But not about Mr. William Smith, I'm afraid," came from the bench, in gentle tones which conveyed no sense of irritation or annoyance.

The Simple Coast Folk.

The Newfoundland coast folk are "wreckers" as well as fishermen—not wreckers in the criminal sense, but expert workmen in stripping and unloading the hulks that are tossed up against the frowning cliffs. Every fisherman can turn his hand to this labor, which frequently pays better than his regular vocation; and salvage schooners find permanent employment there with divers and hoists, recovering from the oozy depths the treasures of this submarine curiosity shop.

The Newfoundlanders of the southern shore counts on "a few wrecks" every year to help him maintain his family.

"How will your people get along this winter?" asked the late Mgr. Power, Roman Catholic bishop of St. John's, of the Rev. Father Heineburg, the priest at Trepassay, near Cape Race, who was dining with him.

"Very well, my lord," replied the padre, "with the help of God and a few wrecks."—McClure's.

THE ESTHETIC GIRL.

Thought the Postal Authorities
Should Issue Hand-Painted
Stamps.

The esthetic girl frowned as she took the letter a maid brought in, and after she had run over its contents and returned the sheets to their envelope her delicate brows contracted again. She looked fixedly at the envelope and murmured: "It really is time something was done about it."

"I hope you've had no bad news," ventured a sympathetic friend, relates the Brooklyn Eagle.

"No; I was just reminded of something. Do you remember that dreadful bazaar fire in Paris, some years ago? I happened to be in the city at the time. The bodies of the victims were carried to the Champs de Mars the morning after the fire. As I stood in the immense crowd outside, watching the relatives and friends enter to identify the victims, two elaborately dressed women went in past the guarded entrance. One of them wore a bright red hat and lifted her skirt unnecessarily high over a scarlet silk petticoat. 'Hem!' ironically ejaculated a brawny peasant woman at my elbow, 'Mais voila des toilettes pour visiter les morts!'"

"They certainly weren't appropriate toilets to visit the dead in," assented the sympathetic friend, "but is there any connection between the fact and that letter of yours?"

The esthetic girl rearranged the folds of her tobacco brown gown, which exactly matched her hair, and adjusted the string of amber beads about her neck before she replied:

"Well, this letter is just as absurd in its way as that woman in a red hat at the scene of mourning. Doesn't it jar on your artistic sense to see that broad black-banded envelope with a bright red stamp in one corner? It's an insult to the esthetic taste of the nation for the government to force us to such atrocities."

"Now, what I would suggest is that the postal authorities should issue mourning stamps. They might be of appropriate design, urns and weeping willows and that sort of thing, or even those everlasting old fathers of the country done in black would be some improvement."

"Do you know I've given up using mauve stationery because it was so expensive. Doesn't cost more than other colors. No, but the stamps do. Of course, I couldn't dream of putting a horrid red stamp on a heliotrope envelope, so I had to buy three-cent stamps. They matched beautifully."

"Think what a joy it would be, if, instead of buying those odious little red oblongs, one could get postage stamps in assorted colors, beautifully tinted. The idea opens out limitless possibilities, too, in the way of suitable designs for different occasions. There might even be expensive hand-painted stamps for aristocrats who dislike to use what the common herd does. And the lover should be able to send the beloved object letters stamped with hearts and cupids."

The sympathetic friend thought the scheme "just lovely," and the esthetic girl went on rapturously:

"Don't you believe we women could start a petition (that seems to be the way they do things nowadays) and send it to the president! We'd call it the modern stamp act; nothing to do with stupid tea as in the old days, but purely for art's sake. You know the stamps could be made an art education for the masses. I declare I'll agitate the matter at the next meeting of the A. A.'s—Artistic Advancement Club."

KISSING CHILDREN.

Something Parents Should Discuss
Tolerance Even Among Their Most Intimate Friends.

The published statement of the celebrated scientist, Dr. Fere, on the neuropathic dangers which may lie in a kiss has created wide and deep interest. Dr. Fere observes that some children manifest a strong, even violent objection to being kissed by certain people whom they otherwise love and revere, says a Paris report.

He mentions the case of a young woman who loves and adores her mother, yet from childhood resented being kissed by her, and this feeling has only grown stronger with the years, the lady in question being now 34 years of age. There are other cases where a kiss forced upon resenting children has had terrible results, terminating in lifelong illness or serious mental disturbances.

In the light of these observations Dr. Fere says parents should cease compelling their children to kiss or to receive kisses where they show an earnest, not merely whimsical, objection. For instance, a girl of 12 years, who always objects to kisses, was one day suddenly taken up by a relative and kissed. The girl turned white as chalk, shrieked loudly, fell back in a swoon, then was shaken by terrible convulsions and again swooned for about half an hour. These attacks returned every fortnight. They have now disappeared, but the girl is still subject to frequent swooning.

Victory.

Let us wipe our tears, lift up our heads and give ourselves to brave and cheerful toil. In due time the release will come; rest so sweet after the toil is over; glory so bright after the darkness is passed; victory so grand that we shall not wish the conflicts to have been less fierce, or the perils of the day less numerous or painful.—Detroit Post.

ALLIGATOR IN QUEER HAUNT.

Curiously-Shaped Reptile Caught in Missouri Mud Pond Puzzles
State Naturalists.

A three-foot alligator found in a mud pond, near the Washburn railroad tracks, in Columbia, Mo., a few days ago is puzzling the zoological associates of Missouri university. The alligator was discovered by Fred Dawson, of Columbia, in a small pond formed by recent rains. The reptile reared its head near the bank and Dawson shot it with a revolver. He secured the specimen and gave it to the zoological laboratory of the Missouri university.

The story was not believed at first, as it was thought that an alligator could not have survived the climate of so northern a region as Missouri, but when the curiosity was exhibited at the state university all doubts were removed. It has been found that the reptile is of abnormal anatomy. It has strangely developed vertebrae, entirely too large and out of proportion with the fleshy parts of the body, and is deformed in other ways, though to all outward appearances it does not differ from other reptiles of the kind. There is no doubt as to the species, but the reptile is so peculiarly formed that the university authorities are of opinion that they have a rare curiosity of unusual scientific importance. A number of offers have been received from curiosity seekers, but the specimen will be retained as the property of the university.

GIRL HAS ROMANTIC CAREER.

Missouri Maid Marries a Negro, Goes to the Madhouse, Then Becomes a Belle.

The story of Miss Mary Gordon is one of the most romantic that has ever come to light, and it is probable that no other school girl in this country has had so many vicissitudes as this talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Liston Gordon, of Chillicothe, Mo.

It is not 30 months since Mary was the wife of a negro and was flying over Kansas, Missouri and Iowa with him, trying to escape from her father, declaring that she would never forsake her black husband; that she loved him, and that she herself had negro blood in her veins.

It is not 30 months since Mary was arrested and declared insane and sent to an asylum as the result of her strange infatuation for her negro husband. From the madhouse she went to a St. Louis academy, and from there she has graduated, to return to her home in Chillicothe and to become one of the belles of the northern Missouri town.

Now she has forgotten her negro husband and her mind is a complete blank prior to the time she was pronounced cured at the asylum.

SAVES THE WOMAN'S SIGHT.

Frog's Skin Grafted on a Wound Prevents Total Blindness and Patient Recovers.

A delicate operation has just been performed in the Massachusetts homeopathic hospital, at Boston, whereby a woman was saved from total blindness.

Frog skin was grafted around her eye, where the flesh is most sensitive, and the process was attended with great danger.

The flesh about the eye had become bruised and the skin became affected. Both to save the eyesight and to prevent the socket from having a bald, hideous appearance the graft had to be made. Frog skin was used because no human skin was available. Grafts from the white skin of a frog were taken and applied to the eye.

The patient has fully recovered. The natural skin and frog skin have coalesced so as to be indistinguishable from the one from the other.

Needed a Kettle.

Prof. George Lincoln Burr, of Cornell, who lately toured New England on his bicycle in order to gather facts about witchcraft, is an authority on the history of superstition and persecution, and is also an indefatigable workman. Prof. Burr, with his bicycle, has penetrated many primitive and secluded parts of the United States.

From these journeys, says an eastern exchange, he returns with little stories that are now quaint, now strange, now humorous. A story of the latter sort concerns a visit to Tennessee.

"I arrived one night at a mountaineer's cabin," said the professor, "and asked for shelter for the night. The good people were very hospitable. They gave me a comfortable bed and an excellent meal."

"While I was eating the meal my host watched me narrowly to see that I had everything I wanted. He kept ordering his wife to fill my glass, to bring me more bread, and so forth. Finally, when I began to eat a piece of apple pie, he exclaimed in an indignant tone:

"Jane, why don't you bring the gentleman a knife? Don't you see him here trying to eat his pie with a fork?"

Mighty Mad Woman.

A cable train was scotching down State street as fast as the wire rope could drag it. The gripman was rattling off "Hiawatha" on the gong, and just ahead a woman, who was almost as broad as she was tall, had preempted the track.

The gripman released the hold on the cable and switched from "Hiawatha" to a break-down jig, but the woman never stirred. The gripman stopped the cable train, leaped over the dashboard of the car, and expected to find a dead woman. But she wasn't dead. Indeed, she was sitting there adjusting her hat.

When she caught sight of the gripman she ground her teeth together, leaned forward, checked her fist at him, and said: "Blame you, anyhow!" A minute later she was up and away without saying another word.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The weary, worn-out, all-tired feelings come to everybody who taxes the kidneys. When the kidneys are over-worked they fail to perform the duties nature has provided for them to do. When the kidneys fail dangerous diseases quickly follow. Urinary disorders, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:

Veteran Joshua Heller, 706 South Walnut street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cunningham Bros., drug store in Champaign and taking a course of the treatment I told the readers of this paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which has elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of an attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically indorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

There are no two trotting events that create so much speculation, arouse so much enthusiasm, bring together so many great horses, or that owners desire so much to win, as Kentucky's Futurity and the Transylvania, the former for $14,000, and the latter for $6,000. By winning either, a horse at once attains a prominence that nothing else can give. These famed events are both offered by the K. T. H. B. Association, of Lexington, and will be contested during the fall meeting, Oct 6th to 17th, when $100,000 will be dispensed in forty-two races.

No event that takes place upon Kentucky soil so deserves the patronage of Kentuckians as this trotting meeting. It has made the State world-wide fame; it has widened the market for the State's greatest industry; it brings more capital within its borders in ten days than any other industry. The meeting this fall will surpass even that of 1902, and the high order of sport demands the most liberal patronage ever accorded. The annual meeting will be held at Lexington Oct 6th to 17th, inclusive.

Wolf Teeth in Horses.

Many people imagine that wolf teeth, as they are called, by some mysterious means, reach up to the eye and affect it in some manner, and many other ridiculous fancies. They are merely superfluous teeth. The idea that they are injurious has become so firmly engrafted in the public mind that it is almost impossible to eradicate it. In the great majority of cases horses affected suffer from recurrent ophthalmia, the teeth having nothing to do with the causation of same. I never argue with people about wolf teeth, but pull them as I am requested. You will feel better satisfied if the wolf teeth are pulled, so it would be better to have a veterinary remove them.—C. E. Hatch, V. S., in Rural New Yorker.

Objected to Colored Pupils.

A dispatch in the Cincinnati Enquirer, of Saturday, from Arkansas City, Kansas, says: Miss Georgia Grimes, of Paris, Ky., answered an advertisement of the Arkansas City School Board for a teacher and was employed. She came here, accompanied by her father, J. B. Grimes, to take up her work, and was given her choice of three vacancies.

In each of the three rooms Miss Grimes found two or more negro pupils. This was more than her Kentucky blood could stand, and she demanded that negroes be barred from her room. The School Board told her that under the Kansas law this was impossible, whereupon Miss Grimes and her father packed up and returned to Kentucky.

"It would ruin me socially in Kentucky," said Mr. Grimes, "if it were known that my daughter was teaching 'niggers' out here in Kansas."
